

1. Which of the following is not a good programming strategy?

1 point

- ☒ Do not include many details in the overall design of the program.
- ☐ Decide the format of the program's output.
- ☐ Use external modules and libraries when they are available.
- ☐ List all the steps by which the program computes the output.

2. Which of these is not true about pseudocode?

1 point

- ☐ It is a detailed yet readable description of what a computer program or algorithm must do.
- ☐ It does not use the rigorous syntax of a programming language.
- ☐ It lists all steps that are required in order to compute the result.
- ☒ It can be read and interpreted by the computer.

3. Which feature is not true about Python?

1 point

- ☒ It is a compiled language
- ☐ It is portable across platforms
- ☐ It is a scalable language
- ☐ It is simple to use